Dear Hiring Team,

Goldman Sachs' FICC and Equities business in São Paulo gives a front row view of how global investors access Brazilian rates, currencies and equities, and working on such a desk is exactly the experience I am looking for. I am therefore applying for the 2027 FICC and Equities Off Cycle Internship in São Paulo.

I am currently completing a six month internship as Wealth Management Intern at L&A Finance in Paris, an independent wealth management advisory firm within the Groupe Rayne, where I analyse and structure financial transactions across various investment products, conduct daily market monitoring and contribute to the preparation of technical client materials.

My Master 1 in Finance at ESSCA School of Management, with courses in Fixed Income Modeling, Derivative Pricing and Quantitative Risk Management, and the Bloomberg Market Concepts certification, gave me a strong foundation in markets. Using AI tools, I designed a quantitative equity strategy that achieved a Sharpe ratio of 0.91 against the SPY over a ten year backtest, and I built a live trading system on Polymarket across eight exchanges, which I shut down once it showed no net edge. These projects taught me to think in terms of risk and reward and to cut a position when the edge is not there.

My commercial experience completes this profile. As a Sales Assistant at Mecanicus, I handled more than ten over the counter transactions between €50k and €500k and managed €3M of inventory. Since 2018 I have run an independent reselling activity that generated over €10k of revenue at a net margin of about 50%, which taught me pricing, negotiation and accountability for my own P&L. I also speak Spanish at B2 level.

I am available from January 2027 for six months.

I would welcome the opportunity to discuss my application with you in an interview.

Yours sincerely,

Gonzague GROS-DUBOIS
